Dear Sir or Madam,

My love of computers began at age 11 when my family got its first PC. Shortly after I began programming with Visual Basic. From there I moved on to other languages and began learning System Administration as well. When it comes to computers, I never want to stop learning new things. This trend has held true for over a quarter century now. In my day-to-day life every time I have an obstacle to overcome my first thought is "how can I use computers to solve this problem." I recently graduated with a B.S. in Computer Science and relocated to Chicago, IL.

I am excited about the Front-End Engineer position that Sprout Social, Inc. recently published on LinkedIn.

I've always thought of myself as someone who approached problems creatively and I do have a passion for JavaScript/HTML/CSS.

From what I can tell from the job posting, the on-boarding process would be an excellent experience.

I believe that my sheer passion for computers including experience with technologies beyond JS/HTML/CSS such as React, Redux, GitHub, and QA in combination with years of office and management experience – always with a customer focus – makes me an ideal candidate for the Front-End Engineer position. Thank you for your consideration and would be open to discuss other positions as well.

Sincerely,

Jason Brunelle
